ABOUT THE SEMINAR

In general sense it is assumed that human rights are rights inherent to all human beings. Being civilized and social every person has the power to retain human rights without any contemplate to race, sex, nationality, language, religion, or any other social status all over world. Human rights refer right to life and freedom from slavery and torture, freedom of opinion and expression, the right to work, and education and many more according to need. It also includes to extend avail adequate standard of living and protection from poverty. Human rights are relevant in combating poverty and social exclusion. Poverty is one of the major causes of social exclusion and social insecurity. Social security is the vital weapon in welfare and peace of mass and a nation. In view of protection of human rights and social freedom in India, Human Rights Commission of India was constituted on 12th October 1993 under the Human Rights Ordinance of 28th September 1993. Its functions include to oversee rights related to life, liberty, equality and dignity of Indian nationals offered by Indian Constitution.

Social exclusion is one kind of discrimination due to poverty or some other belongingness. It is found when some people or some communities are deprived of social status or privileges. Privileges may be social, political or economic irrespective of caste, religion, gender, disability and so on. Social exclusion is also considered as barrier of equal development and harmony in society. Lots of example are there in our society growing chaos and brutal situation only for social exclusion. To some extent Human Rights and Social Exclusion are inseparable. Hence, both issues have plenty of scope in sense of scientific analysis through research. The motto of our proposed seminar is to find out all the consequences in this context.

Intellectual Property Rights :

Intellectual Property refers to creations of mind, such as inventions; literary and artistic works; designs; and symbols, names and images used in commerce. IP is protected by law, for example, patents, copyright and trademarks, which enable people to earn recognition or financial and academic benefit from what they invent or create. By striking the rights balance between the interests of innovators and the wider public interest, the IP system aims to foster an environment in which creativity and innovation can flourish. World IP Day is observed on 26th April every year to promote discussion of the role of IP in encouraging innovation and creativity. Intellectual Property Rights are the rights given to persons over creations of their minds. They usually give the creator an exclusive right over the use of his/her creation for a certain period of time. The protection of this right is to stimulate innovation, design and the creation of technology. In the contemporary period the IPR is an important and relative topic of discussion for the academic communities.
